TEN BENEFITS ALL AT ONCE

Whether it’s adults or children, any time several people gather around a table, the constant noise can sometimes be quite irritating. ORNAMIN tableware is pleasantly quiet, which is good news to both the dining guests and the kitchen staff. It is also especially light, which is primarily noticeable when you are carrying a tray of several plates and bowls to your table. Two benefits, in particular, that are easy on the wallet are the extreme sturdiness and the energy-saving material.

The average breakage rate of melamine tableware is just 2% (in comparison the average breakage rate of porcelain is 33%). Fewer breaks means long durability and less need for replacements, whilst the low thermal capacity ensures that food stays warm for longer without preheating and less energy is required for cleaning. What’s more, the weight tolerances of melamine tableware are much lower than those of glass or porcelain, so that the tare weight is always right with ORNAMIN. And, finally, there is the issue of eco-friendliness. Due to the materials used, the tableware is fully recyclable. And ORNAMIN offers a warranty on manufacturing defects, provided the care instructions have been followed (normal signs of tear and wear excluded).

By the way: Tableware made of melamine is perfectly suitable for decorations. You can either choose from the wide range of designs offered by ORNAMIN or create a customised design.
TIMELESS DESIGN

The Country Style series offers a timeless design for canteens, cafeterias, schools, day care centres, nursing homes, hospitals, hotels and to the catering industry - and of course also for the private use at home or on the go.

The plate is characterized by a wide rim which is clearly separated from the comparatively small inner surface of the plate. Both the rim and the inner surface of the dish are suited for decorations from the assortment of ORNAMIN or you can have individually designed decorations. The plates are perfectly stackable due to their shape, the same applies also to the mugs and bowls.

EATING AND DRINKING WITH DEMENTIA

THE RED RANGE

Eating and drinking habits often change in those affected by dementia: they have less hunger and thirst and no longer understand the need to eat or drink. The functional tableware by ORNAMIN is based on one main principle: eating is a visual process too. Clear shapes and contrasting colours help to make eating and drinking simpler and easier to do. Our tip: Red is the colour of dementia because it has a positive effect on the appetite, provides orientation and is a colour that those suffering from dementia can still recognise even in the advanced stages and it makes contrasts in colour easy to see.

The plates, bowls, cups and boards are also characterised by their intuitive handling. The supportive features hidden in the design make everyday challenges easier to overcome. This promotes independence and a feeling of self-esteem. And: something that is practised everyday is harder to forget.
